

Army Football Squad Arrives in New Haven and Holds Lengthy Practice Session in the Bowl

Cadets Likely to Try Forward Pass Attack Against Yale Team

O'Hearn Will Be Out of Blue Line-Up, but Eddy Is Expected to Start To-day; Neidlinger, Neale, Jordan and Mallory Will Make Up Backfield

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 27.—"To-morrow is the day!" That's the cry in New Haven to-night on the eve of the Army-Yale tilt, which is drawing as large a crowd as ever witnessed a Yale-Harvard game. The Bulldog followers are confident that this year's eleven will repeat the 14 to 7 victory over the West Pointers last year, while those who favor the Cadets are just as determined that the Army will be on the long end of the score when the final whistle blows to-morrow afternoon.

The West Pointers arrived in Derby this morning about fifty strong, and took up their headquarters at the Clark Hotel. This afternoon they had quite a lengthy practice in the Bowl following the very brief signal drill that Ted Jones put his men through. The entire contingent is a strong, husky looking crowd of men, and every man in the outfit has had previous football experience before going to the point.

Yale is favored slightly to win, although O'Hearn is badly missed. Neidlinger has improved greatly since the Iowa game, but he is not as good at quarterback as he was last year. Last year the forward passing of French threw terror into Yale during the last few minutes of play, and if started early in the game this year as it undoubtedly will be, may prove a thorn in Yale's side. While French has departed from among the ranks of the Cadets, Coach Daly has at his disposal both Wood and Dodd, who know how to handle a football.

Lyman To Be Eddy's Understudy. Trainer Johnny Mack to-day announced that Mike Eddy will be able to start to-morrow. This is welcome news to Yale followers, as it is feared Eddy's injured leg would prevent his being in the line-up. In case he is forced to retire, his place will probably be taken by Dick Lyman, former Exeter captain and end on last year's freshman team.

The Elis had only the very lightest workout this afternoon, and were released after about one hour's signal practice and a very short dummy scrimmage. The entire team is in good condition with the exception of Mallory and Captain Jordan, who have been suffering with boils, which though painful are not serious enough to keep them out of the line-up.

The team which will face the Cadets to-morrow will be made up of Eddy at left end, Joss at left tackle, Cruikshank at left guard and on the right side of the line beyond Levejoy, the pivotman, will be Cross, Miller and Hulman at guard, tackle and end respectively. Neidlinger will lead the ball to Neale at left half and Jordan at right half and Mallory at full.

While the varsity was running through signals O'Hearn, Becket and Knowles were busy practicing dummy kicking from the 40 yard line. Eddy Bench, another disabled player, was getting some running this afternoon to loosen up his injured knee, as it is hoped he may be back in the working shape in about ten days.

Notables at the game to-morrow will include General Clarence F. Edwards, commander of the First Corps Area. General Edwards, along with Brigadier General Harry Hale, commander of Camp Dix, and Major General Sladen, commander of the United States Military Academy, arrived in town to-night.

Cadets to Parade. Major Danford, in charge of the Cadets, will march with the Yale team to-morrow morning and will parade the Cadets up to the Yale campus, where they will be dismissed for a short period to get lunch. From the campus the Cadets will march out to the Yale Bowl and parade there prior to the kick-off. The parade in the bowl will take place about 2 o'clock. No word has as yet been received from General Pershing, although it is hoped that the last minute the commander in chief will be able to come.

Major General Mason, head of the Flying Corps, intended coming to New Haven in his special D. B. but, because of insufficient landing space in New Haven, has abandoned the plan.

In the matter of weight the Cadets are in the dark about evenly matched. Daly has no ill will about the weight of the backfield is pronounced as fairly strong by experts who have seen the team in action.

1,250 Cadets to Leave
For New Haven To-day
WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 27.—The Army moves on to New Haven to-morrow morning. The advance guard, consisting of the Military Academy football squad, which will tackle Yale in the Bowl to-morrow, departed this morning. An early reveille will get the rest of the cadets—1,250 of them—out of bed in the dark and on their way to New Haven. The Cadets, Corps of Cadets, under command of Major Robert M. Danford, commander of cadets, will reach New Haven at noon, going over the Central New England Railway via Boston, just above here. The cadets will give a special exhibition drill in the Bowl just before the game. They also will form on the gridiron at the Polo Grounds and return immediately to West Point.

Army's football squad, in fine fettle after a long day with the Elis, got a rousing send-off when it left this morning. The cadets are confident of giving Yale a hard fight.

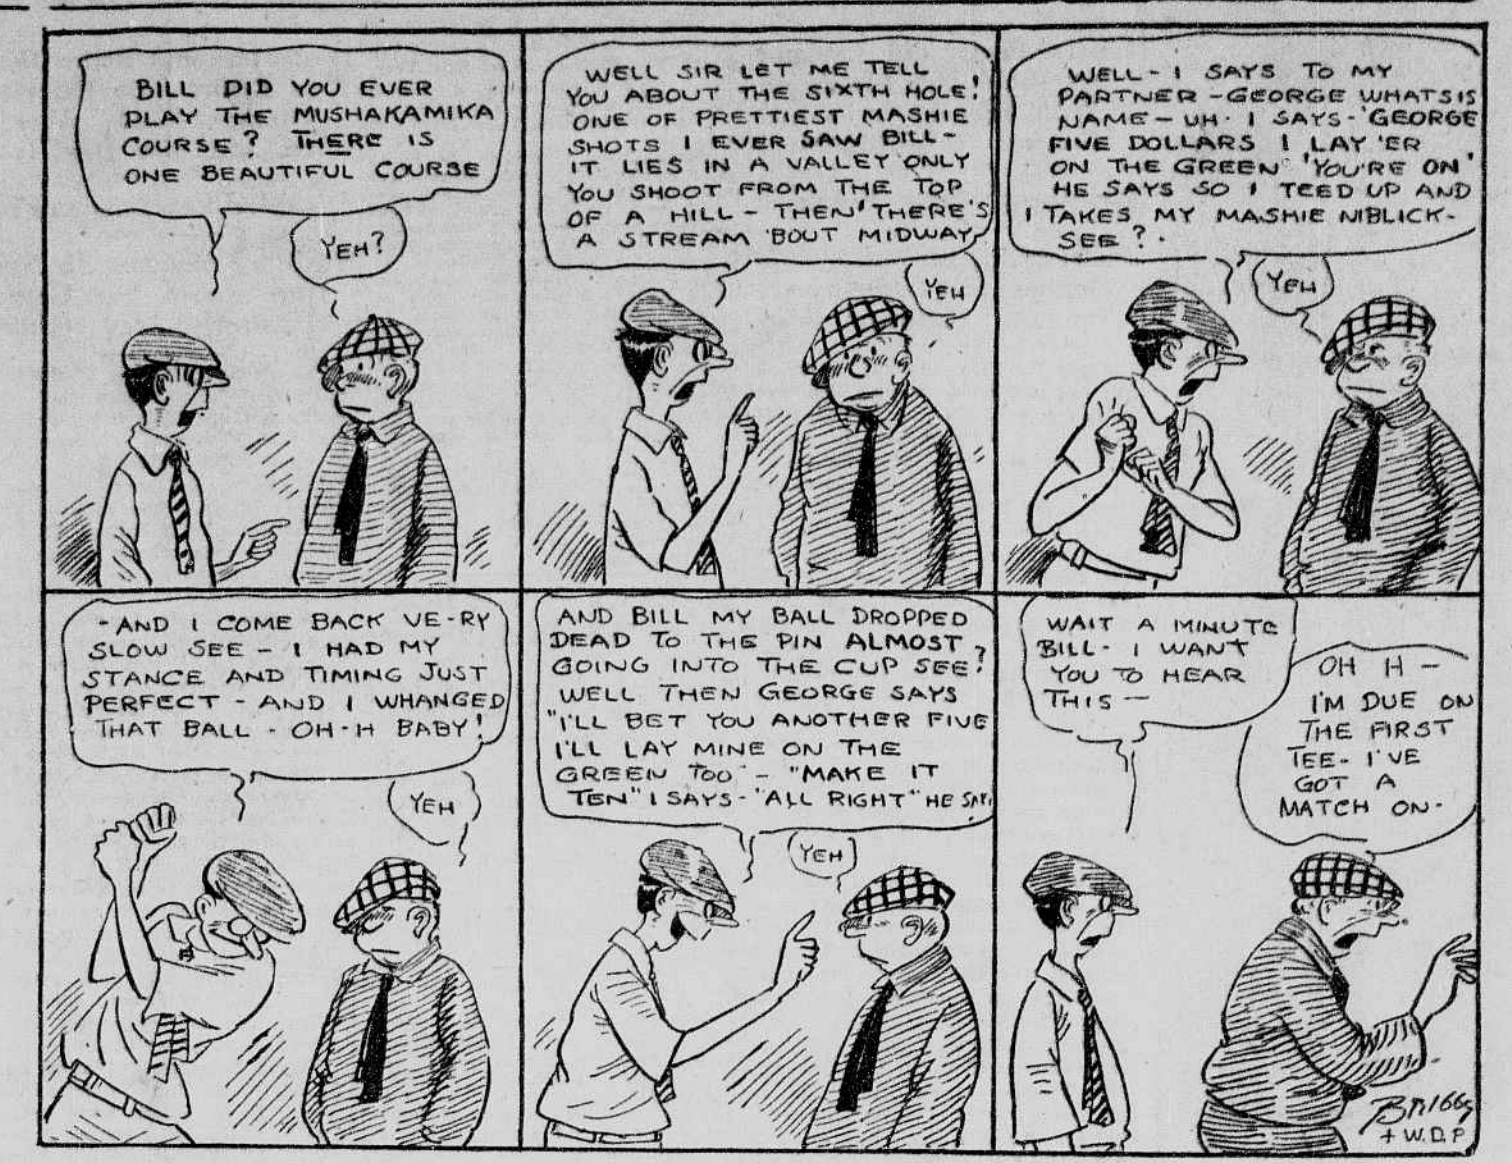

Stevens Confident of Defeating Swarthmore
Stevens plays Swarthmore to-day at Swarthmore. They are holding a "Founders' Day" celebration at Swarthmore, and the whole student body has been granted a holiday by the Stevens faculty so they can take the trip and root for the Engineers.

Stevens intends to make up for last year's defeat by trimming the co-ed university's eleven before the alumni who are attending the celebration. With D. Turnbull back in the line-up and O'Callaghan, MacCaffrey, Gleaser and Eisebeck in the backfield, Stevens is confident it will come out on top.

Stevenson Wins in Two Races at Oxford
OXFORD, England, Oct. 27.—In the University senior sports today W. E. Stevenson of Princeton and Balliol College, Oxford, won the quarter-mile race in 52.5 seconds. He also won his heat in the 100-yard dash, making it in 11 seconds.

Terence Huhn, of Princeton and University College, Oxford, won the running broad jump with 20 feet 5 inches. Huhn also made the best time in the 120-yard high hurdles, 17 seconds.

Fordham Eleven to Meet Westminster Team Here To-day

After playing its last three games on foreign fields, the Fordham varsity will be at home to-morrow. The Maroon engages the Westminster College eleven, from whom Fordham expects to win. Reports have it, though, that Gargan's charges will have no easy time with the Pennsylvanians.

This will be the fourth game of the season for the local lads, who won their opening game from Canisius College, 13 to 0, but lost their three following games to Rutgers, Boston College and Georgetown by 20 to 15, 27 to 0 and 28 to 13 scores, respectively. This record of one victory out of four games is apparently nothing to boast about, but when the caliber of the Maroon's opponents and the inexperience of its own players is taken into consideration it stands out well.

Gargan had his charges on the jump all week, giving them much practice in the development of a defense against the forward pass, which weapon is apparently the feature of the Westminster attack.

While the varsity is entertaining Westminster at Fordham Field Tom Walsh will be supervising the work of his yearling footballers against Princeton freshmen at Princeton. This will be the first game of the season for the Maroon freshmen, who have been out for practice for the past four weeks.

Dope Braces for Shock
The Dope must brace for a number of shocks to-day. Last Saturday the count was 23 to 5 in the way of favorable results, with four ties. The big upsets were Columbia, Rutgers and Dartmouth. Syracuse lost her chance while hammering at Pittsburgh's goal, an intercepted pass, with an 80-yard run, turning near victory into far nearer defeat. Harvard was doped at one touchdown above Centre, and, eliminating an early fumble on Centre's 4-yard line, these figures were about correct.

But this is a tougher day. Those first five selections alone are enough to leave one dizzy when you figure the way a football game can be turned upside down in a flash.

The Penn State-Syracuse contest at the Polo Grounds is one of the hardest of the lot to pick.

Both machines have a world of line and backfield power, but so far Syracuse hasn't struck its top stride. When it does any team might as well look out.

Some Hard Ones
The strong Army team will bring a real war to New Haven, where Yale is much stronger entrenched than the Blue was against Iowa. Yale has a strong machine to stop, but we pick the Bulldog to win after another typical Yale-Army battle, hard fought and exciting to the final play.

Princeton has been moving steadily forward, with fine results up to date from a team that was short of so many veterans and so many stars. The Tiger will give Chicago a first class battle, but the heavier attacking Maroon team figures to win by one or two touchdowns. But there will be no Western romp.

Dartmouth always feeds Harvard the best she has, but Cambridge overshadows Hanover and the Crimson has too much power for the Green.

One of the Closest
When Georgia Tech and Notre Dame meet there will be quite enough thrills to carry over the week end.

The first inclination here was to pick Notre Dame. But Georgia Tech seems to be two touchdowns stronger at home than she is on the road, and Georgia Tech at home has been almost unbeatable. Both elevens should score, but unless Tech breaks down before Rockne's bewildering passing game, the Southern team should pull through. The Navy and Penn are in for a fine scrap, but the Navy has too much line and backfield power, plus experience, for Penn to have any great chance of winning.

Penn has been coming along nicely, but the Navy looks to be one of the star machines of the year, with a big line and three or four fast, experienced backs.

Out West
In the Conference whirl Michigan should beat Illinois in the big game of the day, in spite of severe Wolverine losses through the Ohio State contest, where Yost lost two of his best.

Illinois gave Iowa all the Hawkeyes could handle, and Iowa was much further along than she was against Yale.

Last Saturday we picked Minnesota to beat Northwestern, 7 to 0, but a Northwestern back recovered a fumble, to run 100 yards for the tying touchdown, at 7 to 7.

Minnesota has just as hard a game to-day against Ohio State, where a frank confession here must admit that the chances are almost exactly equal—but Minnesota is playing at home.

N. Y. U. Eleven Meets Rhode Island With Capt. Taylor Out

The Violet eleven is expecting a hard tussle with the New England team. To date the state aggregation has been victorious in all its contests with the exception of Brown University.

Captain Taylor, who broke two fingers in last week's game, will be unable to start, along with Carlson, halfback, who is nursing a strained tendon in his leg. The loss of these two men is a hard blow to Thorpe's already crippled squad, but it is expected that the substitutes for these two backs will give an excellent account of themselves. Rosenberg, a variety guard, will fill Taylor's position, while Thorpe is undecided whether to use Lang or Washington in the open backfield berth.

The Rhode Island squad arrived here last night and is at the Hotel Marlborough.

Tunney Defeats Wiggins
BOSTON, Oct. 27.—Gene Tunney, former light-heavyweight champion, to-night was awarded the decision over Chucko Wiggins, of Indianapolis, after ten rounds of slow fighting with the former A. E. P. champion dropping the aggressor. Tunney landed many stiff drives to the head and body, but Wiggins did much holding.

Curtin Knocks Out London
FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 27.—Irish Johnny Curtin, Jersey City, N. J., weight, knocked out Harry London, of New York, in the eighth round of a scheduled ten-round bout at the Casino A. A. here to-night. Curtin dropped his opponent in the sixth round and finished the bout with a right to the jaw two sessions later.

Larry Williams Signs
Larry Williams, Bridgeport light heavyweight and former sparring partner of Jack Dempsey, has been signed to meet Yussel Pearlstein, of N. J., on Thursday night in a twelve-round bout.

Boys' High vs. Lawrence, Cedarhurst, L. I., 2:30 p. m.
Jamaica vs. Yonkers, Jamaica, L. I.

Tigers Practice on Enemy Soil For East-West Battle To-day

More Than 200,000 Persons Anxious to See Princeton-Chicago Game, but Stag Field Will Accommodate Only 30,000; Roper's Men in Shape

By Ray McCarthy
CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—On the eve of the Chicago-Princeton football game, which is quite the biggest thing that has come into the life of the Western community in some years, the big clamor is for tickets. "Where can we get tickets?" some two hundred thousand people are asking, or rather are pleading. Many of these people stand ready to mortgage their farms if they can get into the field to-morrow.

For example, we bumped right into a San Francisco man who knew who is on his way back to the Coast from New York. The general gossip and discussion of the game has seeped into his soul. This man is not such an enthusiastic football fan, but he is keen now to see the Chicago-Princeton struggle. Somebody has told him it is the first stand of the transatlantic East to regain its football prestige. That's enough for him. He decided he's got to get in on this East-West fight and he is now hot on the trail of a ticket.

Stagg Field doesn't accommodate more than 31,000 at the very most. Thus you can see the value of the tickets in view of the demand. Ticket holders could well get $100 for each pastureback or whatever it is about. But very little speculation is being done, due to the vigilance of the university authorities and the city officials. A jail sentence stands every speculator in the factor in the game.

C. C. N. Y. Makes a Shift in Line-Up For Hobart Game
A few hours after practice yesterday the City College football squad entrained for Geneva, where it is scheduled to meet Hobart to-day. The locals will arrive at the up-state institution this morning and will probably have a short work-out before the game.

Seventeen men were selected to make the trip: Gehins, Farber, Harry Tannenbaum, "Turk" Tannenbaum, Greenberg, Rosenwasser, Schapiro, Brodsky, Vogel, Miller, Schierman, Kudlin, Ringel, Warshawer, Garvey, Lamber and Elk composed the squad. Chomsky, who was picked Thursday to accompany the team, sprained his ankle in practice yesterday and was forced to give way to Lamber.

In meeting Hobart, the Lavender eleven encounters one of the hardest teams on its schedule. The up-state hold a 20-0 decision over New York University, against whom the Lavender is slated to play its most important contest two weeks hence, and to-day's game will serve to throw much light on the relative strength of New York's two traditional rivals.

The C. C. N. Y. eleven will take the field against Hobart with a greatly changed line-up. Rosenwasser was shifted from right end to quarterback during the practice of the week end, will probably call signals to-day. In this event Warshawer will start at the end berth. An important change was made in the backfield, Harry Tannenbaum working out at fullback in place of "Turk" Tannenbaum, and this may be the arrangement to-day.

Not only is this to be a struggle between representative teams of the East and the West but it is the first visit of the big three to this part of the country. Harvard went to the Coast a few days ago but one of the three has played in the Middle West. All three institutions are well thought of in this section and the invasion of one into Middle Western territory has aroused the countryside for miles around.

It is interesting to compare the attitude of the two teams. Princetonians, who, for the most part, hail from the East, are in a curious mood. They are wondering what it is all about. All rather amuses them. They are city folk in a way and inclined to be less serious than the Chicagoans about the matter.

The latter are taking this game in a grim way. You could tell by the way in which they went about their workout this afternoon. All week the local papers have been discussing a coming battle between the Allies and their opponents.

The Princeton crowd, players, coaches and alumni, pulled in on a special running just back of the Broadway Limited, which arrived shortly after noon. They are all quartered at the Chicago Beach Hotel. The players and Bill Roper, the coach, immediately put on uniforms and proceeded to Stagg Field for a short workout, which consisted mostly of kicking and passing.

All are in good shape, even Van Gerbig, punter, who has had a leg injury. The Nassau students went about their work joyfully and in a careful manner. They are quite hopeful but not too optimistic. Their team is green for the most part and they realize they are to meet a powerful and experienced eleven.

Tiger Punters Look Good
Chicago took the field after Princeton and, like the Easterners, confined its workout to kicking and limbering up. It seemed to us that Van Gerbig and the Nassau punters, Eytz and Thomas, the Chicago punters, Thomas is a back that the Maroon is counting on to tear things apart. He looks quite capable of performing the feat. The line as to who is anything but tiny, and each and every individual is a mature-looking player. They know something of life already.

Neither coach is saying anything about the game, which is wise and in good taste. There isn't much to be said. Everybody knows Chicago is a veteran and experienced combination and is generally favored to win; that Princeton is a virtually green team that has shown steady improvement. But for our own part we look for these tenderfoot Easterners to show to advantage to-morrow.

The line-ups are as follows:
Position. Princeton. Chicago.
L. E. Gray. Princeton. Lampe.
L. E. Treat. Princeton. Strohmeyer.
L. E. Dickson. Princeton. Fletcher.
C. O. Alford. Princeton. Dawson.
R. T. Baker. Princeton. Lewis.
R. E. Tilton. Princeton. Dickson.
L. B. Crum. Princeton. Eytz.
R. H. B. Cleaves. Princeton. Harry Thomas.
R. H. B. Emory. Princeton. John Thomas.
